- A Wilson Heater -

Will Save 40 Per Cent.
Of Your Fuel Bill - - -

The celebrated Hot-Blast Down-Draft creates perfect combustion, the gases and fumes (40 per cent. of the heating power of wood), ordinarily escaping unburned up the chimney in other stoves, are all consumed and turned into heat in the WILSON. The Wilson is the only heater in the world, which actually burns all of the fuel put into it. The WILSON is air-tight, heat can be regulated to any degree, and will hold a fire for 36 hours. What you save on fuel will pay for a WILSON HEATER in one season. Burns Wood

MRS. MCKINLEY'S HEIR

Mrs. M. C. Barber, sister of Mrs. McKinley, is her sole heir.

The Mrs. McKinley estate is valued at $115,000 in personal property and $67,000 in real estate. This is exclusive of the estate of the President, which, by will, goes to his direct heirs, Mrs. Dugan and Miss Helen McKinley, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Hermann Bauer (Nabel McKinley).

The Congressional Race.

Charles C. Carlin, of Alexandria, one of the four candidates for the Democratic nomination to represent this district in the United States House of Representatives, has made a most brilliant canvass. His campaign has been a clean one and free from personal criticism of his opponents. Indeed, Mr. Carlin has repeatedly stated in his numerous public addresses, that he wishes to win the nomination by reason of his own merits, and not upon the demerits of the gentleman with whom he is contesting. His fight has been a fair, square and open one—just that kind of a canvass that Virginians like and applaud. That his course has been a popular one is attested by the remarkable strength that he has developed in every part of the district. While the writer may be somewhat biased in his views, we do not think that we fall far short of the mark when we say that every indication points to the fact that Mr. Carlin is easily the leader in the present race.

Charles Carlin is a self-made man and that fact alone has brought him hundreds of supporters throughout the district. People, and especially Virginians, never fail to appreciate a man when he has fought the battles of his life alone, and made a name for himself. Carlin started his business life as an office boy in his home city of Alexandria. From that, long before he attained his majority, he entered the employ of a telephone company, with whom he worked as one of their construction forces. While working for this company he read law and attended a law school at night. This showed his indomitable courage and determination to attain success in life. At an early age he graduated from his law school and was admitted to the bar.

After some years of practice Grover Cleveland appointed him postmaster of Alexandria City. The office came to Carlin unasked.

Continuing his four years service as postmaster of Alexandria City, he resumed the active practice of his profession, in which he has been successful to a greater extent than usually falls to the lot of a man of his age. This is the history of a self-made man. It is a source of pride and support to every man who admires hard work and ability.

And now, for the first time in his career, Charles C. Carlin seeks an election. He has a record as a private citizen, with pardonable pride. Examining the postmaster's office of Alexandria City, which is really not an office in the political sense of the word, Mr. Carlin has never held an office. But he has a record as a private citizen and as a public-spirited man, to which we can refer to. Does any one doubt that Carlin would prove an able representative and faithful custodian of the rights and interests of the people of the Eighth Congressional District? We have yet to hear of the first instance where it has been said that he is not fully qualified for the high office to which he aspires. His business experience and wide acquaintance with men of affairs and the leaders of both great political parties would add greatly to his usefulness and value as a representative of a constituency that has so many varied connections with the city and State of Virginia.

The people of Northern Virginia are certain to realize and appreciate these things, and if appearances count for anything, it seems that the 10th day of June will demonstrate the fact that they have not been misjudged by those who held to the belief that Charles C. Carlin is, by a widely safe margin, leading in the present Congressional race.—Fredericksburg Post, May 31.

When the attacks were in acute stage I was stiff and in so much pain that I could not do my work. I often dreaded to commence the evening day's work.
